TO THE LADIES

—OF—

As God Will.

If I were told that I must die to-morrow,
Which sinks should bear me past all fear and sorrow For any one,
All the fight fought, and all the journey through. What should I do?
I do not think that I should shrink or falter,
But just go on, nor change to seek to alter Aught that is gone; move and live and smile and pray, For one more day.
And laying down at night for a last sleeping, Say in that ear Which harkens ever: "Lord, within thy keeping
And when to-morrow brings me nearer still,
Do Thou Thy Will."
I might not sleep for awe; but peaceful, tender, My soul would lie
All the night long; and when the morning splendor Flashed over the sky,
I think that I could smile, could calmly say,
"It is His will."
But, if a wondrous hand from the blue yonder
Held out a scroll On which my life was writ, and I with wonder Beheld unroll To a long century's end its mystic clew,
What should I do?
What could I do, O blessed Guide and Master,
Still to go on as now, not slower, faster,
Nor fear to miss The road, although I thought it be,
While led by Thee.
Step by step, feeling Thou art close beside me, Although unseen Through thorns, through flowers, whether The tempter's bribe Or Heavens screen—
Assured Thy faithful servant cannot betray,
Nor love decay.
I may not know, my God; no hand revealst,
Thy counsels wise; Along the path no whispering shadow stealth, No voice replies To all my questioning thought, the time to tell,
And it is well.
Let me keep on, adding and unfeeling,
They will always, Through a long century's ripe fruition, Thou canst not come too soon—and I can wait, If Thou come late.

It is a remarkable fact that every day in the week is observed by the people of the State in celebration of religious services. The New York Herald, of June 2d, discussing the Presidential question, says as the canvass now stands, Conkling leads. No prudent party will wish Blaine as a candidate in view of his transactions in Pacific bonds. The only power Blaine can have at Cincinnati is to name the great unknown.
